Bulletin from the Board

For those of you who were not able to attend the yearly membership meeting and have not yet heard the news, our synagogue has a new name! "Congregation Kehilat Shalom," which means "community of peace/wholeness". There was a spirited discussion at the meeting, as always and yet there was a definite consensus to move forward with the renaming process. In the final vote, 78% voted for the new name. We will now engage in the process of determining what the appearance of the name should be, i.e. the character type, the spacing of the characters, etc... It will be nice to replace the old sign out front with our new name and repair the lights so that it can be seen at night.

We also voted on three Board positions. Congratulations to Joan Weisblatt for her reelection to the position of financial secretary, and to Jeremy Lerner and Matt Rosenthal for being elected to Trustee positions. We are looking forward to a productive year.

In addition to our new name, and our new Board, we passed the budget for 2006-07. There will be no increase in membership dues this year. We will need to increase our fund raising efforts for the coming year to make ends meet. Several projects are already in the planning stage. You will hear more about them in the coming months.

During the meeting we also listened to an entertaining presentation by Brian Rosenberg regarding his proposed Eagle Scout project. Brian is planning on creating an outdoor classroom against the eastern side of the building (the school side). Brian will need our financial backing to finish the project. If you would like to donate to the project, sponsoring a bench, table, fencing, shrubs etc... please contact Brian at home. (Parents are Marc and Harlene).

We are looking forward to the challenges of the coming year. If we work together as a community no obstacle is insurmountable. Have a great summer season!
Ed

A BEAUTIFUL AFTERNOON FOR TEMPLE BEAUTIFICATION

Imagine spending a few sociable hours in the quiet woods; bird song is in the air, the occasional frog joins the mix, with the mesmerizing sound of trickling water in the background. Lush shade gardens and lovely water features please the eye and a home that might be in Architecture Digest or House Beautiful beckons you to explore its unique rooms. Thanks to JCCBM members Hilary and Peter Crist, you can have the opportunity to experience all of this and visit an unusual home set on three wooded acres in Hunterdon county -- just 30 minutes due west from the JCCBM.

You've received the SAVE THE DATE and by now have received the invitation to spend a Sunday afternoon in the country on June 25th. This wine and cheese party, hosted by the Crists, also offers you the opportunity to donate much needed funds for improvements to JCCBM. Even if you cannot attend, we hope you will donate a tax-free contribution.

Several house/office tours will be conducted throughout the afternoon. The event will be held rain or shine.

Hope to see many of you there! To RSVP, contact Michelle@jccbm.org and get directions.

FAMILY BINGO!!

Those who attended Family Bingo on April 29th had a wonderful time. A delicious pre-Bingo dinner was followed by an evening of assorted traditional Bingo games as well as prizes awarded for forming chets, dalets, and other Hebrew letters. The evening concluded with a short Havdalah service under the stars led by Rabbi Tayvah. Thanks to all of the great volunteers who made the evening possible: Jon Yuresko and Danielle, Josh and Mara Cige, Jeremy and Lou Orlando, and David Starkman (hope we didn't leave anyone out)! Don't miss our next Family Bingo (coming this fall/winter)!!

Hebrew School Happenings

June/July

The school year ended with many exciting programs. The Yom Hashoah/ Yom Haatzmaut program was a tremendous success. The sixth grade students taught and entertained the rest of the school and guests. Each student read about a person who lived during World War II. They then wrote a first person monologue, created a costume and practiced performing the monologue. Each student performed the monologue for the other students in the school in small groups. One of the guests, Greta Stanton, was featured in "Paperclips", a movie about survivors. As a wonderful coincidence, that story was included in one of the monologues.

After listening to the sixth graders, each group of children visited different learning centers to learn about Israel.

They created Arts and Crafts with Mrs. Mann. They learned about the water cycle with Ms. Pincus. They ordered snacks in Hebrew with Ms. Rachel. They learned about Israeli history and the voting process with Mrs. Sherman. They made and ate Humus with Josh Fischman, our cooking specialist. I have to thank all of the parents and teachers who made this program such an amazing success: Mrs. Faye Campeas, Mr. George Cohen, and Mrs. Nancy Riggio.

Riggio.

These are some examples of shaped poems that our sixth grade made in Mrs. Mann's class.

Jewish Star shaped poem: "Remember the holocaust. Remember the people the people that died standing up for what they believe in"

Poem shaped like a shard of glass:
"People shakin', wishin' on their star. Kids are separated. Parents have headaches wondering where you are. Glass is breakin'."

The next couple of weeks went by in a flurry of Israeli dance and singing in the choir. It was a pleasure to see so many people support our students as they performed in our annual Siyuum (concluding ceremony).

I hope you have a wonderful summer. I am looking forward to September!

Like the vibrating strings on a musical instrument, any word's meaning will resonate with other similar words. To better appreciate the new name chosen at our annual congregational meeting, I offer this illustration of the range of meanings encoded within the two Hebrew words. (While remembering that Hebrew is read from right to left, it may be helpful to read from the bottom of this page up to the top.)

קהילת שָׁלוֹם

shalóm ← keheelát

"Kehilat Shalom: A democratic Jewish community that warmly cares for each other, while striving for wholeness, balance and peace."

Why the tav "ת" at the end of קהילת?

In Hebrew, when two nouns are joined together — "Community Wholeness" — we mark them as one unit of meaning by changing a final 'hey' ה into a tav. Sometimes this also implies the word "of" between the nouns.

• Wholeness, simple & complete

• To make whole, to make complete;

• To pay a debt; to strike a balance in a transaction;

• To improve one's self; to give what is deserved.

• Tranquillity, rest, repose;

• Non-war, peace

verbs nouns

ש.ל.מ.

mem, lamed, shin

some Hebrew letters have two different forms: a regular one and a final one. So, remember: מ=ם

Hebrew words have three letter roots.

• To bring people together;

gather, assemble, congregate

• a Jewish community; the name given to organized Jewish communities that looked after the needs of the Jews in a specific area.

קהל

kahal

• The term for the other Jews praying together in one place at one time distinct from the hazzan or prayer leader

קהילה

keheelah

• A large group of people; an organized group, of, by and for the people (a republic)

verbs nouns

ק.ה.ל.

lamed, hey, qoof

D Y R A B B I T A Y V A N

Learn the meanings of the roots and how the grammar shifts and plays with those meanings creating verbs and nouns and you'll see deeply into the Hebrew mind!

JCCBM YOUTH GROUP

Many thanks to the teenagers of JCCBM for all their help this month. In May the teens ran another bake sale and car wash during the Spring Open House as well as helped out by baby-sitting during the annual meeting. Under the leadership of John Smulian and Elaine Donoghue the teens spent Sunday morning, May 7th washing a steady stream of cars. Thank you Elaine and John for organizing the car wash and for chipping in to wash cars when needed! A separate thanks to the president of the synagogue who rolled up his sleeves and soaped up the cars when the line was growing long during the end of the day. Thanks, Ed! Thanks to the teens for generously giving of their time to this fundraising effort. The food was delicious as always and many families contributed to the selection of sweets. The morning would not have been successful without the generous support of the congregation, who stopped by to purchase a brownie, cookie, or cupcake, stayed to chat, and waited while their car was being washed. It was a wonderful morning where everyone had the opportunity spend time together in a friendly setting.

On Sunday, May 21st during the annual meeting, several teenagers stepped up to the plate and offered to baby-sit. This enabled the parents to focus on the meeting secure in the knowledge that their children were safe and sound. Thanks to all who participated.

SAVE THE DATE: Week night at the end of June or possibly first week-end of July

RECONSTRUCTIONIST REGIONAL YOUTH GROUP

On April 29th the regional youth group gathered to eat dinner and watch a couple of Jewish comedy videos. The group met at the Fridkis house in the early evening and played a few rounds of basketball before coming inside for a pizza dinner. The Marx Brothers led off the night's entertainment with Mel Brooks following close behind. Many thanks to Alisa Wise, the youth advisor, for organizing the event.

On May 21 the youth group has scheduled an afternoon of laser tag. This activity was rescheduled from the winter, when it was cancelled due to a snow storm. Hopefully, the spring laser tag date went off without a hitch!

June Event: To be announced. Look for information from Alisa in your email.

HEBREW HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

May brought the last sessions of this year's Hebrew High School classes. Wednesday's class finished on the 17th and Thursday's class ended on the 18th. It was a fruitful year for both sessions. Many thanks to all who helped contribute to the year's success, especially teachers-Rabbi Tayvah, Susan Waskow, and Barbara Lehman; the Hebrew High Committee - Natalie London, Mindy Weinberg, and Harlene Rosenberg; the students - Thursday's class of Jonathan Yuresko, Dan Krisiloff, Brian Rosenberg, Martin Zorde, Andrew Rabinowitz, Liz Smulian, and Jake Fridkis and Wednesday's class of Josh Kent, Josh Fischman, Ilana Berger, Sarah VanPeenen, Lindsey Rosenthal, and Gabe Fridkis. Many thanks also to the parents who purchased pizza throughout the year - Susan Krisiloff, Elaine Smulian, Natalie London, Tom Berger, Lisa Kent, and Carrie Fischman. Together we have created a setting for our older children to grow as young Jewish adults.

In May the Wednesday class discussed ethics with me using Randy Cohen's ethics column in the New York Times Sunday magazine. We debated the correct course of action with regards to a landlord discriminating against a possible tenant based on his preconceived notions of what her cooking preferences were, whether it was okay for a wealthy person to pursue a second career as a nurse when others needed the job, and the value of reporting a theft of merchandise to a former employer 20 years after the fact. Susan Waskow lead a review of the year and asked each students what they liked and didn't like about the class. The students also made invitations and asked the 7th graders to join them for a party on the last day of class. The final class was a party with the 7th graders for the first hour and a separate party for themselves during the second hour. There was music, games, and pizza for all. What a great way to end a great year! But wait, to continue the fun the Rosenthals generously offered to host a pool party at their house. Many thanks to them.

The Thursday class had two special sessions in May. First, Jim Ohls came to discuss the school lunch program on May 4th. Coincidentally, the day of the discussion the newspapers announced the decision by the beverage industry to remove soft drinks from school vending machines. Many thanks to Jim for volunteering his time to lead another interesting topical discussion with the older teens. On May 11th, Rabbi Tayvah organized a class trip to the bookstore in the Princeton Shopping Center to view the Anne Frank exhibit. Natalie London and Susan Krisiloff assisted as drivers for the students and stayed for the two hour tour through the exhibit. A Holocaust survivor spoke with the group at the beginning of the tour and told about her experiences as a 12 year old in Germany during WWII.

Thursday's class once again thanks the Krisiloff family for hosting a year end party at their home on May 19th. Dinner and outside fun was followed by the group going to Shabbat services together. It was a wonderful way to end a successful year.
